

European and International Human Rights Standards in Disaster Settings

Jean Monnet Module - Intensive Course

27 June - 1 July 2022

Scuola Superiore Sant'Anna
Piazza Martiri della Libertà, 33
Pisa ITALY

BACKGROUND

Over the last years, the impact of natural and technological disasters has been constantly on the rise, both within and outside the EU. The recent COVID-19 pandemic is just the last dramatic example.

Looking at this phenomenon through a legal lens, it is widely acknowledged that disasters heavily impact on the rights of the affected communities. At the same time, humanitarian organizations insist that human rights principles should be integrated into disaster management policies in order to strengthen prevention, response, and recovery efforts, while increasing the protection of the affected individuals and communities.

However, efforts to disseminate human rights standards applicable in disaster settings have been limited, including in Europe. The intensive course on European and International Human Rights Standards in Disaster Settings (EIHRSDS) aims at addressing these gaps.

NATURE OF THE COURSE

The course is structured as a 5-day intensive course (Monday-Friday).

The entire course runs for 38 hours (normally 8.30-18.00).

A maximum of 25 participants will be admitted.

The course is planned to be held in person, subject to any development in the Covid-19 health emergency.

WHO CAN APPLY

The course is intended for graduate and post-graduate students, research fellows and other academics, practitioners working on disaster-management issues for national and international organizations, NGOs and other actors active in this field (IFRC, national Red Cross Societies, etc.).

Applicants must have a sound working knowledge of English.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

The course aims to:

- provide participants with a sound knowledge of the legal frameworks and principal actors relevant to disaster management activities and the role of human rights in the prevention of and response to natural and technological disasters;
- raise awareness on the critical role of human rights in disaster settings, and thus favour a more human rights-sensitive approach to disaster management;
- offer a solid understanding of the specific needs of vulnerable groups affected by disasters.

MAIN TOPICS

The course is divided into five sub-modules, one for each day of classes:

Introduction to International Human Rights Law (IHRL) and Disasters, providing a general introduction on international disaster law and IHRL and addressing the primary role of the affected State in disaster management activities.

Actors in Humanitarian Assistance and Protection, focusing on non-State actors (UN, IFRC, NGOs) that have a role in disaster management activities, especially in those related to human rights protection.

Applying Human Rights in Disaster Settings, dealing with concrete human rights standards applicable to disaster settings and describing the legal duties they impose on States (and non-State actors) with regards to disaster management activities.

Protection Issues, shedding light on the notion of 'vulnerability' and exploring the specific protection needs of vulnerable segments of the population.

Human Rights and Disaster Prevention/Mitigation, addressing the interplay between IHRL and other branches of international law that contribute to preventing and mitigating disasters.

CERTIFICATION AND CREDITS

Participants attending at least 80% of the classes will be awarded a certificate of attendance.

Participants wanting to obtain university credits (ECTS) will be allowed to do so, provided that they pass the course's final exam.

METHODOLOGY

The teaching methodology will feature a combination of frontal lecturing and more interactive training techniques (case study solving, etc.).

Participants will have access to on-line resources ahead of the sessions to favour their active participation during classes and improve the learning experience.

DIRECTION AND TEACHING STAFF

The Course Director is Professor Emanuele Sommario, coordinator of the Jean Monnet Module. The faculty will include teaching staff members of the Scuola Superiore Sant'Anna as well as academics, practitioners and other experts from Italian and foreign institutions.

SELECTION PROCESS

Applicants will be selected on the basis of the information provided in their CVs and in the on-line application form, which is available at <https://www.santannapisa.it/it/formazione/european-and-international-human-rights-standards-disaster-settings>.

Upon submitting the application form, please remember to attach your CV. In case of problems with the on-line procedure please contact riccardo1.luporini@santannapisa.it.

The application deadline for the 1st round of the selection is set on 16th May 2022, while the application deadline for the 2nd round is set on 06th June 2022.

Successful applicants who require a visa to enter Italy are strongly advised to immediately contact the Italian Embassy or consular authorities in their country of residence (for more info please see: www.esteri.it/en/sportello_info/domandefrequenti/sezione_visti_entrare_in_italia/).

The selection will be conducted by an ad hoc committee headed by the Course Director. Selection criteria will include: academic background; professional background; experiences as a volunteer; motivational statement.

COURSE FEE

Thanks to financing from the Jean Monnet Module, professionals working in the field of human rights and/or disaster management will be required to pay a fee of only 250 Euro. PhD students will be required to pay a fee of 100 Euro. Other participants (graduate, students enrolled in a Master programme, etc.) will be required to pay a fee of 50 Euro. Please, mention explicitly in your CV to which category you belong.

FOR ANY ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Course Secretariat
tel: +39 050 883360

Course tutor: Dr. Riccardo Luporini
Riccardo1.luporini@santannapisa.it website: www.eihrsds.santannapisa.it

Scuola Superiore Sant'Anna

The course will be held at the Scuola Superiore Sant'Anna ("the Scuola") in Pisa, at the Aula Magna Storica, located in the Main Campus, piazza Martiri della Libertà, 33.

The Scuola is a public, autonomous, special-statute university, which promotes education and research through undergraduate studies, master and PhD programmes in the fields of Social Sciences and Applied Sciences.

The Scuola has acquired a significant experience in organizing advanced training courses for professionals engaged in humanitarian assistance and peacekeeping operations.

The Scuola is also particularly active in conducting state-of-the-art research on the protection of human rights in emergency contexts.